

BV Science, Inc. is a new US corporation formed in 2017, by the collaboration of South American Vetanco S.A. and European Dr Bata Limited. BV Science, Inc. represents a combination of science, technology and products in North America. For 30-years, they've developed a line of natural products that serve as natural solutions to producing animal protein without antibiotics. For more information, please visit www.bvscience.com.

We are ready to introduce ourselves to the US poultry market and need remarkable sales people to help!

If you have experience in the US broiler, laying hen or turkey businesses, we want to talk to you. We need self-starters with a network of contacts and experience in the industry. Previous managerial experience a plus. Expected travel of 60-70% within United States. Relocation not necessary given travel requirements.

Grow with us in this outstanding opportunity to share new products from a new company. We would love to talk to you! - Dave Zacek, President/CEO

Send your resume & a letter about yourself to info@bvscience.com.